Re: Accumulated Vacation Time

The following are the options we have come up with regarding your accumulated vacation time from a number of years ago. In 2005 when the fire department changes were made your vacation time earned for 2005 was converted to the 8 hour day/schedule. The 517 hours that you still had on the books from previous years was taken off of your balance at that time. We talked about how to handle those 517 hours at that time and nothing had been decided.

Option #1 –

Convert the 517 hours that were earned as 24 hour shifts/days to 8 hour days – 172 hours

Payout of the 172 hours in 2006 at the 2005 wage ($23.49) - $4,040.28

Option #2 –

Convert the 517 hours back to sick leave that was used during that time a few years ago – 21.5 x 18 = 387 hours of sick and reconfigure the sick leave conversion after adding these hours in.

Cindi ~

Would you please go back to Scott's timesheet cover and get me what he carried over for each of the following years:

2000 into 2001: 216 hours

2001 into 2002: 493 hours

2002 into 2003: 469 hours

2003 into 2004: 421 hours

2004 into 2005: 517 hours

Thanks.

Luann
